

CHILDREN TURN INTO PEOPLE.

Children often grow faster than you think. That's why it's especially important when designing a room to take into account that a first-year student will grow by up to 30 inches by the time they're fully grown. A regular six-month review of whether the tables and chairs are still at the right height for all students will ensure you play it safe: is the foot position still correct? And are the elbows at the same height as the tabletop when sitting upright?

A2S furniture provides six size categories which are easily distinguished thanks to their color coding. And for all students and adults of a somewhat more robust build, there is also an extra size with an extra-wide seat.

So you can be sure that everyone's sitting comfortably at all times - regardless of what stage of growth they're currently in.
